From the Committee

At the time of writing ANDFHG has nearly closed down for a well-earned break. Only the final Legacy user group meeting remains on Monday December 5th.

Do not despair we will be back in the new year with the regular Thursday and Saturday open days from January 12th. Research help will be available on these days. You can contact either Ivan or Margaret if you wish to book some time.

The December issue of the Compass will be out in mid-December, keep an eye out for it, it promises to be a good read.

Included with this Newssheet is the calendar of events for December and January. As expected December is a little quiet but it's all go in January. The highlight is our guest speaker Aimée Engler whose talk is titled "Nazis in disguise? The South Australian Lutherans and their response to National Socialism". The flyer included with the Newssheet explains more.

The New Year also brings the 13th Australasian Congress of Genealogy and Heraldry which runs from March 28th to 31st. The list of speakers is impressive and you can go to just one day or the whole four. The associated exhibition will be first class and if you are not interested in the speakers at only $10 entry should be good value.

Full details of the congress are available here <http://www.congress2012.org.au/index.html>

ANDFHG are seeking volunteers to staff their exhibition stand for a few hours at a time. No experience necessary. If you volunteer you will receive complementary entry to the exhibition. If you are interested contact us via this email info@andfhg.org

Aimée Engler

Nazis in disguise? The South Australian Lutherans and their response to National Socialism

Members of the Adelaide branch of the Nazi Party taken near Tanunda in 1934. It is believed that Dr Johannes Heinrich Becker father of former SA politician Heini Becker was the photographer.

The question has long been asked as to whether the Lutheran Church, with its German heritage, was infested with Nazis during the 1930s. This topic explores the history of the Lutheran Church, its connections with Germany by the 1930s, and the response of the Lutherans to Hitler and National Socialism.
